ISA Kids Sports Coaching Certification Course

Course Synopsis

Developing Fundamental Movement Skills (FMS) are essential to children's physical, cognitive and social development and its correlation to leading an active lifestyle. These skills are developed in childhood and subsequently refined into more complex and specialised sport-specific skills for kids to competently participate in different games, sports and recreational activities.

The ISA Sports Coaching for Kids Certification course will address the various locomotor, manipulative or object control and stability skills which will equip you with the appropriate knowledge and skills to become a proficient coach for kids. Participants must complete 14 hours of practical attachment under the supervision of the trainer.

Course Objectives

Upon successful completion of the course, participants will understand:

- Understand the concepts of Fundamental Movement Skills and Long-Term Athlete Development Framework
- Describe what athletes need to be doing at specific ages and stages
